MAKE THEMSELVES USEFUL.

Dogs Perform Many Services for the Miners in Frozen Alaska.

Dogs have suddenly become more valuable than horses in this section of the northwest. This state of affairs results from the great and growing demand for dogs to be used in hauling sledges in the Yukon country, Alaska. While thousands of horses for which their owners cannot get three dollars a head are roaming over the plains of eastern Washington and Oregon, good-sized dogs are bringing from $15 to $30 each in the local market. At Juneau their value is double what it is here, and on the Yukon river a good dog brings from $100 to $150. To the Yukon miner the dog has become what the reindeer is to the Laplander and the pony to the cowboys of Texas and Mexico—a beast of service and a most valuable one.

Every steamer sailing for Alaska for three months past has borne northward several dozen dogs destined for service in front of heavily laden sledges. They are taken by boat to Dyea, at the head of salt water navigation, and there put into harness to assist in hauling outfits and supplies over the Chilkoot pass and down the farther slope to the series of fresh water lakes forming the headwaters of the Yukon's tributaries. Up to May, when the ice breaks up, dog teams slide over the smooth surface of the lakes with surprising rapidity, considering the loads they haul. There are portages to be made around dangerous rapids, and here again their services are invaluable. Arriving at the central parts, such as Forty Mile or Circle City, both men and dogs are put into harness again for the trip to the diggings.

The sledge dogs are too valuable not to be well taken care of where that is possible. Their owners' first thought in this respect is to obtain plenty of food for them. Their food consists principally of fish, usually salmon, caught in the Yukon river by the natives. An ordinary dog will eat daily two pounds of dried salmon, which equals seven pounds of fresh fish. At Forty Mile last winter dried salmon sold at from 20 to 50 cents a pound, and bacon that was fit only for dogs to eat sold for 37½ cents a pound. In some of the larger camps on the Yukon dog boarding houses have been established, where the animals are properly cared for at from six to fifteen dollars a month, according to the season and the price of dog food.—Forest and Stream.

They'd Rather Sit with Men.

A noticeable habit of women on railway trains is that of preferring to sit beside a strong man rather than to take a vacant seat beside a strange woman. The window seats the whole length of the car being in possession of earlier comers, the belated woman or girl can be counted upon to pass by seat after seat until she reaches one where a masculine visage is silhouetted against the window pane, when with a "Is this seat engaged?" she seats herself shoulder to shoulder with a strange man. It would seem natural for a woman of refinement to find such close proximity to a stranger of the opposite sex little short of revolting—an experience, in fact, to be avoided, if at all possible. Judging, however, by the conduct of the majority of the sex, this is not a point on which women are sensitive.—Vogue.

Galusha Grow's Eyesight.

Ex-Speaker of the House and Representative Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, is 73 years old, but he writes without glasses as readily as a boy of 18. The other day he was writing in the secretary's office of the house some autograph passes to the reserved gallery and some one complimented him on his good sight. "It is because I began to wear glasses as soon as I needed them," said the veteran Yankee, for he is a native of Connecticut. "I have at home the ones I wore when I was much younger, and they still fit me. I use them sometimes for reading the newspapers."

Brigandage in Greece.

Brigandage is rampant at the present moment in Greece. This is accounted for by the disbandment of large bodies of volunteers, who, owing to the stagnation of trade and industry, have no employment or means of livelihood and have taken to highway robbery for the purpose of avoiding starvation. Most of them were permitted to retain their arms when dismissed from the service, and are now putting these weapons to private account.

A sea-captain may navigate his ship safely across the ocean, but when he comes into port he must have a pilot who knows all the difficulties and dangers of that particular channel. In the voyage of life there are many perilous places where we need the help of a pilot who has a thorough knowledge of the special difficulties and dangers to be avoided.

In those delicate physical weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women a general practitioner or ordinary doctor has no opportunity to become thoroughly proficient. Still less to be trusted is the advice of any mere nurse or unscientific person.

Only a specialist who has given a life of study to this particular field of practice, is competent to treat the diseases of woman's intricate and complicated organism.

Any woman suffering from these delicate troubles may obtain the most eminent professional advice free of charge by writing to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. During nearly 35 years at the head of his splendid staff of specialists, he has successfully treated many thousands of cases of obstinate feminine complaints.

His "Favorite Prescription" was devised for the sole purpose of curing the diseases and weaknesses of the feminine organs. No other medicine has been so marvelously successful in this particular field of practice. No other medicine so completely overcomes all the dangers and nearly all the pains of motherhood.

It is with pleasure I recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to suffering ladies," writes Mrs. J. Ferguson, Box 29, Douglas Station, Selkirk, Co., Manitoba. "After suffering untold tortures I thank God I found relief and cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

THE COMING STATE FAIR.

The Territorial Enterprise, commenting on the coming State Fair, speaks truly of the advantages to the people of the State generally, in aiding and fostering this State institution, and the kind words coming from a distance, and more particularly from a mining district, which certainly cannot have any direct interest in the success of the fair, should have all the more weight. It shows a kindly spirit towards, and an interest in the agricultural and stock industries of Nevada and consequently should be heeded:

"A State Fair is an institution which benefits the whole State to a great degree and should have the hearty cooperation of all parts of the commonwealth.

"The agricultural interests of a people are paramount to all others in the great economical scheme of necessity and supply. It is the farmer who feeds us, clothes us and furnishes the most prized of our so-called luxuries. Upon the success of the farmers' efforts in supplying the raw material depends the prosperity of all other classes. The manufacturer must look to the producer of raw material in all cases before he can find a vocation and if the miner could not exchange the minerals which his labor yields for the products of the tiller of the soil he would soon be obliged to cease his quest of gold, which can neither satisfy his hunger and thirst, nor can it clothe him, nor brighten his health. The farmer, honest tiller of the soil and producer of all that mankind can not do without, stands first in the great scheme of social economy. And his laborious calling should receive the encouragement and support of all other classes. The Nevada State Fair is but one of thousands which are annually held and supported by the people of the United States; but it is our own, and its effects are beneficial here in Nevada; therefore it should receive our support and patronage in preference to the perhaps more extensive affairs of similar character held in neighboring States. It is to this fair that the Nevada cattle raiser leads with pride the finest of his herd. It is at this fair that the wool grower exhibits the most prized of his flock. The agricultural emulation which a fair of this kind engenders in a community of untold value. Had it not been for this kind of competition we might still be eating tough beef of the half wild kind and be clothed in the coarsest hair of goats as were our ancestors not so many centuries ago. Apart from the benefits of an institution like the Nevada State Fair, speaking in a general way from an economic standpoint.

"The benefit Nevada may derive from making the fair one which will attract the attention of the people of other States to the resources of Nevada is incalculable. Nevada has vast agricultural resources. Some of the richest farms in the world lie within in our cultivated valleys, and there remain yet untitled vast tracts of barren sagebrush and sand which only require irrigation in order to blossom as the rose, let us of an essentially mining community show an appreciation of the agricultural advantages of our State this year by placing our shoulder to the wheel and aiding by our presence at Reno week after next, the State Fair this year, which President Powning assures us is to be a good and a big fair."

MINERS KILLED BY DEPUTIES.

The clash between the striking coal miners and the authorities has culminated in a slaughter of the miners at Latimer, Pennsylvania. The strikers left Hazleton on Friday afternoon, intending to go to Latimer. A posse of deputies left on the trolley cars to intercept them. When they met the strikers they advanced under Sheriff Martin, who read the riot act. Some one struck the sheriff, and he ordered the deputies to fire. The strikers fell before the storm of bullets, those who were uninjured fleeing to shelter. The deputies, dismayed at their own act, went to the assistance of the wounded. As the evening advanced the fears of the Hungarians turned to rage and threats of revenge were loud and frequent. Governor Hastings of Pennsylvania, anticipating trouble, ordered out a brigade of militia to assist in preventing the shedding of more blood.

The miners carried their dead and wounded into the woods, and it is thought that at least twenty were killed outright and forty were wounded by the deadly fire of the deputies. It is not stated that the strikers were armed, which indicates that they were not, as they did not fire on the deputies.

This is the first blood shed in the great coal strike, and it appears that those who were sworn to deal in their power to prevent bloodshed were the persons who did the killing. There was doubtless some provocation, but nothing less than armed resistance on the part of the strikers could justify the deputies in shooting them down by the wholesale.

It is to be regretted that at this juncture, when the differences between the mine operators and the mine workers were about to be amicably and peaceably settled, that an armed band of hired assassins, under pretense of keeping the peace, should indiscriminately slaughter unarmed and defenseless miners who were only asking sufficient pay for their labor to keep themselves and those dependent upon them from starving. Never before in the history of the country has such an unprovoked, wholesale murder been perpetrated under the thin guise of keeping the peace. At the time of the great railroad strike three years ago the military in Chicago and other large cities affected by the strike were stoned and hooted, yet they forbore from firing on the mobs of sympathizers with the strikers, who were provoking them almost beyond endurance. Now a gang of deputies without, so far as is known, any great provocation shoot down in cold blood a number of miserable wretches who were simply demanding about as much for mining a ton of coal as the importer has to pay at the custom house on a ton of coal brought by water or rail to the United States from foreign countries.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The 65 cent proposition was rejected at the National Miner's Convention at Columbus. The vote stood 407 for and 415 against.

Captain Zaddart of the steam schooner South Coast, estimates that his twenty-seven passengers brought out of the Klondike $350,000.

Quarantine has been declared against Louisiana by Mississippi, Texas and Alabama. Two new cases of yellow fever have developed at Biloxi. Other towns are also afflicted.

An announcement made in London yesterday that the directors of the Bank of England had decided to hold one-fifth of the bank reserve in silver has caused great excitement on the continent.

The railroad officials claim that only thirteen persons were killed and seventeen injured in the collision on the Colorado Midland. The fact that the cars took fire and that some of the bodies were reduced to ashes makes it difficult to arrive at the loss of life.

The shooting of strikers at Latimer has brought on serious rioting. Eleven of the miners were shot down and four died from the wounds received. Troops have arrived at Hazleton, Pa., and before nightfall 2,500 soldiers were expected. The situation is extremely critical and great apprehension is felt at the approach of darkness.

Fifteen hundred men employed at the Latimer mines joined the strikers yesterday. Owing to the shooting of the miners by the deputies, men are quitting the mines on every hand. Warrants have been sworn out for the arrest of Sheriff Martin and 102 deputies. Some of the most prominent men of the city have subscribed to aid in the prosecution. At Dubois, Pa., forty-eight armed foreigners marched to the mines and prevented 800 men from going to work. A crisis is expected.

A Venerated Relic in Springfield, Ill.

Surrounding the courthouse in a county seat within 100 miles of Springfield, Ill., stood for many years a plain board fence. Before it finally disappeared to make way for "park" improvements it had been rebuilt at least twice. At each rebuilding, however, particular care was taken to leave a certain "top board" in exactly the position it had occupied before, not even a new nail hole being made in it.

A stranger, noticing one day this peculiarity in the fence, asked an old citizen, who was leaning against a locust-tree and whittling a stick, if there was any explanation.

"Did the county run out of money," he inquired, "when it had got this fence all finished except one board?"

"No, sir," replied the old citizen, putting his jackknife in his pocket, walking to the fence, and laying his hand on it in a most impressive manner. "This top board is with more'n all the rest of the fence put together, old and rotted as it is."

"Old Abe Lincoln made a speech in this court-house yard in 1856, and when he was through talkin' he saw an old farmer in the crowd that he used to know when he was a boy, an' he came down from the stand an' took that old feller out to the fence an' talked over old times with him for ten minutes or more, without payin' any attention to the big-bugs that was waitin' to take him off to dinner. And while he talked to him, sir, he rested his right foot on this yere top board. I seen him do it, an' so did 500 other men—an' that board hain't never been disturbed sence, an' hain't never goin' to be!"

Saying which, the old man walked back to his position against the locust-tree, took his knife from his pocket again and resumed his whittling.—Youth's Companion.

Curious Facts About the Toad.

The toad lives ten to forty years, does not begin to produce young until the fourth year, but then lays over 1,000 eggs a year. It has lived two years without food, but cannot live long under water. It never takes dead or motionless food. It takes its food by means of its tongue alone, and it operates this so rapidly that the eye cannot follow its motions. It captures and devours bees, wasps, yellow jackets, ants, beetles, worms, spiders, snails, bugs, grasshoppers, crickets, weevils, caterpillars, moths, etc. The stomach that doesn't flinch at yellow jackets, wasps, blister beetles and click-beetles or pinch bugs would seem to be prepared for anything in the insect line, and it doubtless is. In 24 hours the toad consumes enough food to fill its stomach four times. A single toad will in three months devour over 10,000 insects. If every ten of these would have done one cent damage the toad has saved ten dollars. Evidently the toad is a valuable friend to the farmer, gardener and fruit grower, and can be made especially useful in the greenhouse, garden and berry patch.—Galveston (Tex.) News.

There Was a Cellar to It.

Chicken Bill and Tabor were partners in numerous mining ventures in the mountains in the early days, before the governor became known to fame of a bonanza king; and each was in their several ways helping the other, says the Denver Times. After Tabor had struck it rich and had money to burn, Chicken Bill approached him with a scheme which he represented to be very promising and easily induced him to take some stock in it. Before long the fact developed that Tabor was a minority owner, associated with a number of shady fellows from whom his instinct told him fair play could not be expected. Thoroughly dissatisfied with the deal and incensed at the deception practiced upon him by a man he had so many times befriended, he sought him out and demanded an explanation. "I thought you told me I was on the ground floor in that transaction," angrily shouted Tabor. "Well, you were, Horace," replied Bill, with a characteristic grin. "You were in on the ground floor, just as I told you—but there was a cellar to it."

THE EMPIRE SCHOOL DISTRICT.

What Superintendent Cutting Has to Say About It.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—An article heading your editorial column in this morning's issue under the caption: "The Keesley Institute vs. The State University," calls upon the State Board of Education to explain why it granted Mr. E. E. Roberts a certificate which would enable him to teach the school in Empire, where he had been engaged as Principal by the unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees.

I am not authorized to speak for the State Board of Education, but as a member of that Board I feel called upon to explain official acts, when one of our leading daily papers, in its editorial column, demands such explanation, for you are supposed to voice the sentiment of the people and they have a right to an explanation from their public servants at any time.

Mr. Roberts arrived in this State about March 1st last. He was seen on the streets of Carson under the influence of liquor several times between then and April 1st, when he entered the Keesley Institute here. Since April 3rd he has not touched a drop of liquor; all his acts have been those of a gentleman. He applied for the school at Empire telling the Trustees at the time of his having drunk and of his course in the Keesley Institute. They employed him, with a full knowledge of all his actions, according to the statement of two of them. There is on file in this office a petition signed by the parent or guardian of every child in the Empire school, and the three Trustees, asking that he be granted a certificate. Mr. Roberts holds a diploma from the San Jose Normal School of date June 26, 1891, with numerous recommendations from places where he has taught, and was therefore legally qualified to receive a certificate of the grammar grade.

Considering then, that he was engaged by the Trustees of Empire unannounced, with a full knowledge of his past life; that the State Board was petitioned by every patron of the school he was to teach that he be granted a certificate so that he might teach their school, would it not have been rather arbitrary on the part of the State Board to refuse the certificate and thus refuse the people of Empire the right to regulate their own school affairs.

I was not aware that the State Board could have forced a graduate of the University into the Principalship at Empire, as your article suggests, and in this I think you are mistaken; but even had it been possible, I would consider it rather a bad policy for the State Board or the University itself to try to "force" its graduates upon any community, and I do not believe the graduates of our University care to accept or need to accept positions that they must be "forced" into. The Alumni of our University are doing very well and no cases have yet been reported where they could not make a place for themselves. I see no reason why we should embitter any community against the University by arbitrary action.

I think, Mr. Editor, that you will find the graduates of the University loyal to themselves and to each other, and all anxiously working for the "best" interests of their Alma Mater.

There is no intention on my part of arguing the right or wrong of the case at hand, but a desire only to give the explanation you demand. Every member of the State Board did what he conceived to be right and best in the matter. Here are the facts and the people are the judges.

Any further explanation you may desire shall be forthcoming.

Your obedient servant,
H. C. CURTIS.
Carson City, Nevada, Sept. 10, 1897.

Large Wheat Crop at Lovelock.

The Elko Independent says: The report comes from Lovelock that the wheat crop in that valley is the heaviest ever produced there, some of the land yielding as high as 67 bushels to an acre. Those who knew Mr. Hy Stoker so well and for so long during his long residence in Elko county will be gratified to learn that he is decidedly "on top of the heap" this year. Mr. Stoker has somewhere in the neighborhood of 900 acres under cultivation, and his yield was the heaviest in the county. It is safe to estimate that he will harvest $35,000 worth of grain. Mr. James Staats, also a former resident of Elko county and now living in the Lovelock valley, is another of the fortunate ones.

An Attempted Holdup.

J. O. Lutze, a man in the employ of T. G. Herman of Wadsworth, while cutting wood in a field near town was ordered by a couple of men to throw up his hands. The men were brandishing knives, but Lutze managed to dodge them and escape, not entirely free, however, from assault as one of the men made a lunge at him, ripping a hole in his clothing. Lutze then showed fight and the robbers escaped. Lutze followed them and reported the case to the officers, but without result.

THE RELAY RACE.

The Riders as Paired for the Race

The great fifty mile relay race between selected teams from the Carson and Reno Wheelmen will take place at the Agricultural grounds this afternoon. The contest promises to be an exciting one for there is a good natured rivalry sprang up between the two towns to win the laurels. Rooters from each town for their respective favorites will be on the grounds and the riders will be spurred on to superhuman exertion to break the records and each do his part in winning the relay.

Each rider will be required to ride five miles. On his last mile his relief will meet him up the home stretch and catch his pace and as the wire is reached the tap of the bell ends the five mile run of the one and begins the ride for the other. This continues until each of the ten riders has made his run, each mile being timed and the contest decided by the lowest record for the fifty miles. Should a rider or his wheel become disabled, a substitute hurries to the quitting point and takes up the race.

The following are the riders in each team including substitutes as paired for the race. The admission to the track will be 25 cents.

Prospects at Olinghouse.

Olinghouse has been and is a good camp to the poor man. The majority of the prospectors who went in there made a summer's wages through the sale of claims or through wasting placer ground. People who bought claims have no complaint to make, at least we have never heard a complaint from any of them. Work goes on and everybody looks pleased. Dearth of capital to develop is the only drawback and that we believe will not be long lacking, judging by indications, as capital is always on the lookout for a good thing.

The Hutchinson tunnel, at the time of this writing, is in about fifty feet from the face. The boys thought they would cut through the first croppings by last night or to-day. The ground has been mean to work, too tough for effective blasting. The ground is heavily mineralized, as gold is found the entire length of the tunnel. In about ten feet an inch streak carrying wire gold in plenty was cut. Then a vein about two feet wide carrying $5, next a vein of ten inches carrying from $3 to $10, then porphyry and quartz of low grade but carrying colors, and at forty-five feet a blind ledge was cut that came up two feet from the tunnel floor. It is solid ore, carries iron and free gold and prospects about $20. No attention will be paid to it at present.

Lumber For Everyone.

The new ad. of Laberty & Mitchell appears in another column. They are energetic young men and are determined to sell lumber to the farmers, builders and in fact all in need of this material at prices that defy competition. They put their price at $9 per thousand feet at their mill and the lumber is first-class. They will also sell wood at the lowest figures. All they ask is a trial and they will guarantee satisfaction. They have an excellent road to their mill two and a half miles west of Verdi, or a letter addressed to them at Verdi will receive prompt attention.

Wines! Wines! Wines!

A. T. Dormie & Co., opposite the depot, have just received a large consignment of wines which will be sold at a 25 per cent reduction. They are of Santa Clara and Santa Rosa vintage and are of the purest quality. Just the thing for medicinal and family use. Read the list: Zinfandel, Maderia, Angelica, Tokay, Port, Sherry, Catawba, Charet, Reisling and others, also imported Italian wines and grape brandy.

HER SECRET.

Actions Speak for Themselves—He Was Willing to Read Her Mind.

For many years the young woman had called upon Ulysses. She had brought him numberless packages of choice cigarettes, as well as divers specimens of the most expensive cigar, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. She had repeatedly purchased tickets for various celebrated prize fights and after escorting him thither would see to it that he had plenty of lemon cream-puffs to munch upon during the intervals of slugging. Many and many an evening had she assisted him in increasing the numerals upon his poor hard-working mamma's coal and gas bills, and she had seen four several sets of new springs added to the parlor sofa. But hitherto she had not stood up like a—woman and boldly declared her love for him and requested to be allowed to pay all his expenses in the future in consideration of his donning her last name.

But upon this special evening in question Ulysses had her dead to rights. It may have been the wretched golf costume in old gold and baby blue that he wore or the shy grace with which he placed his tiny palm in hers. However, be this as it may, she could no longer restrain herself, but impulsively threw her arms about his frail, shrinking figure and drew him tenderly toward her.

As her lips rose from his she lovingly murmured: "This kiss tells you my secret."

And Ulysses, as he furtively removed some cut plug from his mouth, found an opportunity to observe: "Would you—your—mind—saying—it—over—again?"

HOLD A NET FOR A BEAR.

Bruin Makes It Lively for a Couple of Up-to-Date Hunters.

The following is vouched for by a reliable citizen of the locality where the event occurred, near Disco, 12 miles from Black River Falls, Wis., says the Chicago Chronicle. The farmers had been annoyed by wolves and one of them found a den that he thought would hold a dozen or more. Four of them went there with a large fish net, a long tin tube and a double-barreled gun. They had heard of scaring animals from their den by putting a tube in the hole and then shouting through the tube. Two of them held the net over the mouth of the den and another stood ready with the gun, while the fourth one managed the tube. He gave a fearful screech into a funnel fixed in the end of the tube and after an effort or two there was a rush and growl and out came a black bear as though possessed of nine demons.

He plunged into the net and the two men and the bear had a merry time. The man with the gun didn't dare shoot, for he could not tell where there was the most bear and the least of the men. The net broke and let his bearship through and he made for tall timber at a marvelous rate, but the net men looked very discouraged and it will be a cold day when they try it over again.

The informant was very reticent about telling who the men were, but as he had a double limp, his face scratched and was in the city for a new suit of everyday clothes it looked as though he knew who helped hold the net.

PRIVATE STREET CARS.

One of the Recent Developments of the Trolley Idea.

One development of the trolley-car idea is likely to be shown ere long in the somewhat general fashion of owning private cars. At present a few, though an increasing number, of rich men own private railway cars. The expense is enormous, all things considered. But a moderate expenditure will suffice in the case of the trolley, says the Boston Advertiser.

Only, in a little while, street cars will no longer be propelled by means of trolley attachments, but their motive power will be applied from an inside third rail, or by means of a storage battery, or, possibly, there will be some method invented of which as yet the public has not even a hint.

Anyhow, the rapid extension of the electrically propelled street car system, not only throughout all cities and considerable villages, but into the suburbs and far away into the country, so that in a long time, where population is even moderately dense, there will be an electrical car line close to every man's front door, will supply the conditions necessary for a vast multiplication of the number of private cars.
